

Cabaret set to captivate

AFTER the success in 2006 with sell-out seasons and their last production of the cult classic Little Shop of Horrors, Williamstown Musical Theatre Company (WMTC) is offering patrons a great cabaret line-up in September.

Some of Melbourne's rising cabaret stars will perform at the Mechelec Cabaret Festival, named for the festival venue, the Williamstown Mechanics Institute on the corner of Melbourne Rd and Electra St.

Artistic director and WMTC president Marcus Cassidy-Anderson says the company is thrilled to be producing the festival.

"We have comprised a great array of talent that all offer something different.

"The not bitter but quite twisted Tina Del Twiste will sing the blues while shows by the delightful Groove Tonic and ReWorks: Altered Music Theatre will bring the audience chills as you listen to their outstanding vocals."

Hosted every night by theatre guru and JOY 94.9 presenter Will Conyers, the festival offers a rich array of fresh talent and live entertainment.

A festival is about seeing as much work as you can in a short space of time. With this in mind, WMTC has developed a special all-nighter festival pass, in which patrons can take the complete journey and experience non-stop entertainment on the night of their choice by seeing up to three shows for as little as $45.

Alternatively, entry to each show is $20.

Mechelec Cabaret Festival runs from Thursday 6 September to Saturday 8 September at the Williamstown Mechanics Institute.

Tickets are available by calling 1300 881 545 or by visiting www.wmtc.org.au.
